PAUL ALLEN

Paul Allen, a longtime leader in the personal computer industry, made a dream come true when, on May 31, 1988, he purchased the Portland Trail Blazers from the club's original owner, Larry Weinberg. An avid NBA fan, Allen moved from fan to Chairman of the Board when he brought the Blazers under his direction.

"In the first year of my ownership of the team, a number of changes have been made," Allen said. "Rick Adelman is now our head coach, Brad Greenberg is our director of player personnel, and we will have a number of new players on our roster on opening night. We think these changes will result in improved team performance.

"Our new state-of-the-art video replay scoreboard should improve the enjoyment of the game for all fans. We are committed to continuing to find ways of improving fan enjoyment of Blazer games. There have also been a number of organizational changes which we think will make the Blazers more responsive to our sponsors and fans.

"Looking ahead, I am optimistic and very excited about the upcoming 20th anniversary season. The whole Allen family shares in my excitement and enthusiastically looks forward to every Blazer game."

Allen, together with fellow Seattle native Bill Gates, co-founded the computer software firm Microsoft in 1975. The 36-year-old Allen served as Executive Vice President of research and new product development at Microsoft until 1983. He remains the second largest shareholder in the corporation.

In 1985 Allen founded Asymetrix Corporation in Bellevue, Washington. As President of Asymetrix, a software start-up company, Allen is dedicated to the development of business applications for the latest generation of microcomputers. He is also a member of the board of directors of Egghead Discount Software.

A resident of Mercer Island, Washington, Allen attended Lakeside School in Seattle and Washington State University. He has a basketball court in his backyard, which he uses to shoot around with friends. He also enjoys playing guitar (electric and acoustic) as well as chess.

BERT KOLDE

Bert Kolde serves as Vice-Chairman of the Trial Blazers.

"Last season was clearly a disappointment," said Kolde of his first year with the organization. "Our challenge was to turn all the adversity into a crucible for positive change. The resulting transformation has created a new wave of enthusiasm throughout the Blazer organization. We are all looking forward to enjoying a more successful season."

Kolde is also Executive Vice-President of Asymetrix Corporation, where he helped Paul Allen in the founding of that company. Asymetrix is focused on the development of business applications software for microcomputers. Bert earned a bachelor's degree in finance from Washington State University and completed his master's in business administration at the University of Washington in 1980. In between academic stints he served as a U.S. Army officer in an infantry battalion stationed in the Panama Canal Zone.

Bert and his wife, Alison, are the parents of two-year-old Bronson and newborn Sterling. Bert enjoys playing chess in his spare time.

For the best performance at home or on the road.

There's a new team in Portland: BP. And we know how to get the best out of your car. Our line-up of gasolines includes new BP Super Unleaded. This new high octane gasoline keeps your entire fuel intake system free of the performance-robbing carbon deposits other gasolines leave behind. So when you hit the trail, don't trust just any gasoline. Fill up at BP. There's no better team on the road.

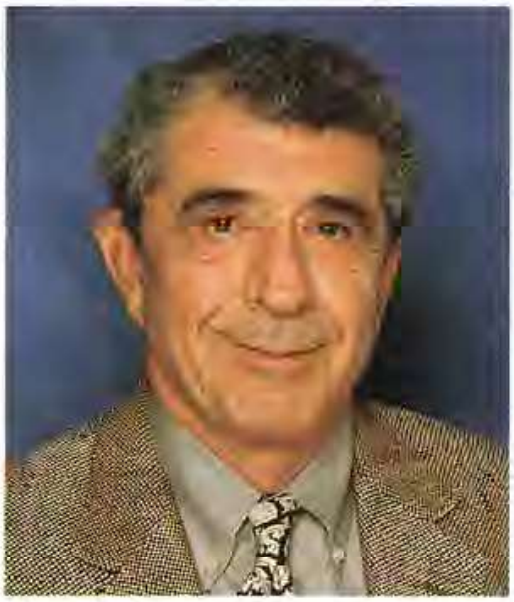
HARRY GLICKMAN



The Portland Trail Blazers, one of the most successful franchises in all of sports and a model for other organizations in professional basketball, point to the accomplishments of one man as the foundation for their rise to the top.

The man is Harry Glickman.

It was more than just a fitting tribute to the highly successful Blazer President when he was enshrined in the Oregon Sports Hall of Fame in August of 1986. It was recognition for the man who has been the compelling force in introducing and maintaining professional sports in the Pacific Northwest.

The success of the Trail Blazers has been unequalled since Glickman first began wooing a franchise to Portland as early as the mid-1960's.

In January of 1970, Glickman went to the league meetings of the NBA in Philadelphia with the backing for a franchise. Expansion into San Diego, Phoenix and Seattle, coupled with the transplanting of the Minneapolis Lakers to Los Angeles and the Philadelphia Warriors to San Francisco, opened up the West Coast to the predominately eastern league and enhanced Portland's bid for a team.

At the Philadelphia meetings, Glickman found the ground rules had changed and the ante had been increased for an expansion team. He returned home empty-handed but that initial setback was shortlived. A month later, with new financial backing, the Portland Trail Blazers were born at a meeting in Los Angeles.

Just seven seasons into existence, the Blazers brought a world championship to the city of Portland. Glickman's initial commitment to putting Portland at the forefront of the NBA has never wavered, avoiding the complacency that sometimes accompanies success.

Entering the 1989-90 season, the Blazers have sold out an astounding 528 consecutive homes games at Memorial Coliseum. That's easily the longest string by any team in any sport.

Glickman was born in Portland and graduated from the University of Oregon School of Journalism in 1948 following a stint in Germany during World War II. He served as director of the university's athletic news bureau as a sophomore and covered the Ducks for the Oregonian during the era of the late Norm Van Brocklin, one of Glickman's close friends.

Plans to become a sports writer were tabled as Glickman began to open doors for himself in the area of promotions and publicity. After founding Oregon Sports Attractions in 1952, he devoted his efforts to promoting boxing, professional football and the Harlem Globetrotters, as well as non-sports related activities such as the Northwest tours of Judy Garland and Liberace.

A pre-season football game between the Los Angeles Rams and the Chicago Cardinals in 1952 was staged by Glickman at Multnomah Civic Stadium. With more than 29,100 fans in attendance, it was his first sellout. He continued to bring the NFL to Portland until 1969.

Glickman served as manager of Multnomah Civic Stadium in 1958 and 1959.

In the fall of 1960, Glickman brought professional hockey back to Portland after a 10-year absence, organizing the Portland Buckaroos of the old Western Hockey League. During the '60s, the Buckaroos finished first seven times and second twice in one nine-year stretch. They smashed every attendance record in professional hockey outside the then tightly-knit six-team National Hockey League.

Glickman's commitment to improving the quality of life for the people of Oregon has not been limited just to providing the benefits derived from the realm of sports. He is active in a wide variety of civic affairs.

He is a member of the board of directors of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Oregon, and the U.S. Committee Sports for Israel. He's on the board of trustees of Congregation Beth Israel, and a member of the advancement council of the School of Journalism at the University of Oregon.

Glickman and his wife, Joanne, have two daughters, Lynn and Jennifer, a son, Marshall, and a grandson, Joel. Marshall is vice-president of marketing, also with the club.

Glickman's hobbies include golf, tennis and fishing. He authored the popular book, 'Promoter Ain't a Dirty Word,' an account of his life in sports management.

SOMETIMES THE BEST THERE IS COMES FROM OUT IN OREGON.

It's tough to beat a good team with home court support. That's why "Insurance from out in Oregon" makes so much sense for residents of the Pacific Northwest.

Standard offers outstanding life and disability insurance and retirement plans for individuals and groups. Outstanding products have led to sales success. Sound investment of the premiums and home office efficiency have provided financial strength.

Leading from strength, Team Standard consistently pays policyowners higher dividends than projected at the time of purchase. It pays to play ball with Standard. Forget the hoopla from big eastern insurance companies. Capitalize on your home court advantage!

MORRIS (BUCKY) BUCKWALTER

Vice-President of Basketball Operations Bucky Buckwalter is in his fourth full season in charge of Portland's player personnel, a position he assumed in January 1986 after serving as an assistant coach and chief scout for the club since 1979.

Through the years, Buckwalter has earned a reputation for discerning and discovering talent from a myriad of sources. His efforts have extended to every area of the globe and his courage to take calculated risks has been rewarded with numerous success stories.

It was Buckwalter's expertise that fostered Portland's bold move to act globally in the 1986 NBA draft, securing the rights to Drazen Petrovic of Yugoslavia and Arvydas Sabonis of the Soviet Union. Buckwalter has spent considerable time analyzing the foreign leagues, and, in fact, served as head coach of the Brazilian national team when it upset the Russian team in Moscow during 1975. He'd even studied international law at the American Institute for Foreign Trade before devoting all his energy toward basketball. In addition to Petrovic, several players were added to the Blazer roster during the summer of 1989. A major trade to obtain All-Star Buck Williams was engineered and free agent Wayne Cooper was brought in to shore up the front line.

In earlier years, Buckwalter plucked several plums that have become valuable contributors to the success of the Trail Blazers. Foremost has been Terry Porter, the team's first round draft pick out of Wisconsin-Stevens Point; Jerome Kersey of Longwood College in Virgina and Steve Colter from New Mexico State, both second-round selections in 1984; Johnny Davis, a second round pick from Dayton in 1976; and Billy Ray Bates, a charismatic guard imported from the CBA during the 1979-80 season.

Buckwalter was introduced to professional basketball in the summer of 1972 when he joined the Seattle SuperSonics as an assistant coach. When Tom Nissalke was fired in January of 1973, Buckwalter took over as head coach for the remainder of the campaign. The following season, he was an assistant general manager to Bill Russell with the Sonics.

The 1974-75 season saw Buckwalter at the helm of the Utah Stars in the American Basketball Association. Perhaps his most notable accomplishment that year was to lure a youngster named Moses Malone from Petersburg, Virginia to forego a collegiate career in favor of a professional contract.

Buckwalter also coached the Fresno Stars of the Western Basketball Association for a year before joining the Trail Blazers staff.

His roots are deeply planted in the Oregon soil. A 1952 graduate of LaGrande High School in Eastern Oregon, Buckwalter led his Blue Mountain Conference team to the state tournament as a 6-2 senior forward with a reputation for being a furious competitor. LaGrande finished fourth in the tournament, and Buckwalter, who was also senior class president, was selected as an all-state forward.

Buckwalter played collegiate basketball at Utah, where he led the team in scoring as a sophomore and was all-conference his last two seasons. Those two final years saw Utah reach the NCAA tournament only to lose to eventual champion San Francisco, which featured Bill Russell.

After serving as an assistant coach for eight seasons at Utah, Buckwalter took over as head coach at Seattle University in 1967-68 and in five seasons posted a sparkling 79-49 record, a .617 winning percentage.

Buckwalter's journeys have provided enough stories to fill a library with volumes of interesting anecdotes. When he wasn't taming the wild world of basketball, he could even have been found riding the range of the wild, wild west on the silver screen in "Pillars in the Sky" with Jeff Chandler and Dorothy Malone or playing opposite the legendary John Wayne in the film "McQ."

Buckwalter's wife, Paula, and son, Bryan, are two of the Blazers' most visible supporters at games and functions.

A few words about pride.

To a world striving to communicate, we provide quality communication products and services. In an era of technological advances, we are a leader in innovation. Yet our pride is being part of the communities we serve – the cities and towns which look to GTE for answers to communications needs. We're proud of those communities and we're proud to be part of them.

The front runner in communications.
And proud of it.

RICK ADELMAN

Rick Adelman, an original Blazer and the team's first captain, begins his first full season as head coach. He ascended to the post midway through the 1988-89 season and was given the job permanently on May 11, 1989. He is the seventh head coach in franchise history.

The 43-year-old Adelman served as an assistant coach with the Trail Blazers after joining Jack Ramsay's staff in the spring of 1983. He maintained his bench duties under Mike Schuler and moved to the helm upon Schuler's dismissal February 18, 1989.

"I am delighted that Rick will be serving as our head coach this season," said Blazer President Harry Glickman, noting that the team has an option year following Adelman's one-year contract. "We have the utmost confidence in his ability and are pleased with the way the team responded under his leadership last season."

Despite an unforgiving schedule and some key injuries down the stretch, the Blazers out-dueled Dallas to advance to the NBA playoffs for the 12th time in 13 years, posting a 14-21 record after the coaching change. The Portland players and front office were pleased when the word "interim" was dropped from Adelman's job title shortly after the season concluded.

"He did a good job in a tough situation," said guard Terry Porter. "We worked hard for Rick, but when he took over it was tough because of our schedule and the injuries. I think he gets along with the players, but I think the biggest thing is the players respect him."

A 6-foot-2 guard in his playing days, Adelman was selected by Portland from San Diego in the expansion draft of 1970 and was the cover subject of Portland's first media guide, as well as this season's edition. He played three seasons with the Blazers (1970-71 through 1972-73), averaging 9.8 points and 4.6 assists in 237 games. He set what then was a Portland record for assists in leading the club with 413 and a 5.2 average in 1971-72.

Overall, Adelman played in 462 regular-season games during a seven-year stint in the NBA that included stops in San Diego, Portland, Chicago, New Orleans and Kansas City-Omaha. He recorded 3,579 points (for a 7.7 average), earned 1,606 assists (for a 3.5 average) and shot .415 from the field and .713 from the foul line.

A graduate of St. Piux X High School in Downey, California, Adelman scored a school-record 1,415 points (an 18.6 average) in four collegiate seasons at Loyola. He earned a Master's Degree in History at the institution following his retirement from the NBA.

One year of work with Converse preceded Adelman's move to Salem, Oregon, where he served as head coach at Chemeketa Community College for six seasons. His teams posted a 141-39 record, winning outright or sharing three Oregon community college championships and one Region 18 title.

Adelman and his wife, Mary Kay, have two daughters, Kathryn and Laura, and they have two sons, R.J. and David. Adelman was born June 16, 1946.

JACK SCHALOW

Jack Schalow begins his fourth season with the Trail Blazers, continuing in the assistant coach capacity that he assumed when Rick Adelman was elevated to the top spot last February. A veteran of collegiate coaching ranks and the Continental Basketball Association, Schalow has served the Blazers on the bench as well as on the road as chief scout.

"Jack rejoined the coaching staff under some trying circumstances last season," Adelman said. "He gets along very well with our players, is very loyal and has quite a bit of knowledge and experience. He's a natural for our staff."

Schalow joined the Blazers as a scout in December 1985. Prior to undertaking those duties, he was head coach of the Wyoming Wildcatters in the CBA. In the 1982-83 season, his first with the Wildcatters, Schalow guided the team to a runner-up finish in the league's Western Division in just the organization's first year of operation. Wyoming won the Western Division and went the distance in the CBA championship series before falling to the Albany Patroons in the final game. The 1984-85 season saw the Wildcatters win the Western Division regular season race but finish third in the division playoffs. In his three seasons at Wyoming, Schalow fashioned a 69-67 record and was runner-up for the CBA Coach-of-the-Year Award following the 1983-84 campaign.

Schalow is widely noted at the collegiate level as well. A graduate of University of the Pacific, Schalow served as freshman coach at his alma mater in Stockton, California. His other head coaching assignment came at Morehead State in Kentucky. Schalow also served as assistant coach at Duke (with Hubie Brown), Louisiana State and Seattle University. Two of his five seasons at Seattle were as an assistant under Bucky Buckwalter, current vice-president of basketball operations with the Blazers.

Jack is the father of daughter Traci Ann and son Terry. He and his wife, Valda, and children, Bridger and Lanie, reside in southwest Portland.

JOHN WETZEL

John Wetzel, a former player, assistant coach and head coach in the NBA, is in his second season with the Trail Blazers organization.

Wetzel, 44, was head coach with the Phoenix Suns two years after serving as an assistant with the team for eight seasons. A veteran of seven seasons as a player with Los Angeles, Phoenix and Atlanta he retired in 1976 (with averages of 3.4 points and 1.4 assists) only to return to the game as a coach two years later.

"John Wetzel is one of the most experienced assistants in the league," said head coach Rick Adelman. "He's been in the league a long time and knows the business very well. I'm very happy that he's decided to stay on with the staff."

His first coaching experience came during the 1978-79 season when he guided the Washington Lumberjacks of the Western Basketball Association to a 29-19 record. A 1966 graduate of Virginia Tech, Wetzel was a finalist for the Cleveland Cavaliers' head coaching position in 1986.

Wetzel was an eighth-round selection of the Lakers in the 1966 NBA Draft but did not play that season due to a broken wrist. He was picked by Phoenix in the 1968 Expansion Draft but spent two years in military service before joining the Suns prior to the 1970-71 campaign. Following three seasons with Atlanta, Wetzel returned to Phoenix in time for the 1975-76 season that saw the Suns advance to the NBA Finals. In the summer of 1976, he became the first player to retire as a member of the Suns.

Wetzel enjoys golf and windsurfing. He and his wife, Dianne, have two sons, Mark and Paul.

The name of the game is power and performance!

BRAD GREENBERG

Brad Greenberg, a scout with the Blazers the last two seasons, is in his first season serving as the clubs' director of player personnel. He serves under the direction of Vice-President of Basketball Operations Bucky Buckwalter, focusing his efforts on roster management. His duties include scouring the college ranks and international leagues for future prospects, keeping tabs on who's doing what in the CBA, and researching possible trade opportunities with other NBA clubs.

Greenberg served as assistant coach with the Los Angeles Clippers for three years, beginning with the 1984-85 season. He worked under Jim Lynam (a former Portland assistant) for one year and under Don Chaney for two seasons. He also held the title of player personnel director the last two seasons before leaving to join the New York Knicks as an assistant coach midway through the 1986-87 season.

A standout player for Lynam at American University, Greenberg became an assistant coach with the Eagles upon graduation in 1977. He moved on to be an assistant at St. Joseph's University for six years (working with Lynam for three) before joining the Clippers. While Greenberg was at St. Joseph's, the team posted a 141-65 record, advancing to the NCAA's twice and the NIT three times.

Greenberg's wife, Fran Greenberg, is the former director of public relations for the Continental Basketball Association and a columnist for HOOP Magazine. They are the parents of three-year-old son, Cory.

MIKE SHIMENSKY

Mike Shimensky is in his third season as trainer for the Trail Blazers, and ninth season as a trainer in the NBA.

Moving to the Northwest was something of a homecoming for the 42-year-old Shimensky. After attending Centralia Junior College, where he played baseball and basketball, Shimensky graduated from Central Washington University.

He earned a masters degree in athletic training at the University of Arizona in 1973 and served as that schools assistant trainer, working with basketball, football and track and field. He became the first certified full-time trainer in the Phoenix school system and regularly held training seminars through the Sports Medicine Clinic to benefit coaches, trainers and nurses by providing them with better insight into sports-related injuries.

Shimensky joined the Clippers in September of 1981 and spent more time with that organization than any player, coach or front office personnel. He earned an outstanding reputation that led to his being hired by the Blazers following the retirement of Ron Culp (now with Miami) after 13 years.

A member of the National Athletic Trainers Association and the National Strength and Conditioning Association, Shimensky enjoys playing tennis and softball in his spare time. Mike and his wife, Roberta, have three children, Daniel, Andrew and Lauren.

BEFORE YOU BUY A COMPACT CAMCORDER, MAKE SURE ITS TAPES CAN PLAY IN YOUR VCR.

If you're thinking about buying a compact camcorder, you have to think about more than just how compact it is. Especially if you already own one of the 60 million VHS recorders out there. Because some compact camcorders use tapes that won't play in your VHS recorder.

That's why the new Panasonic VHS-C Compact Camcorder is not only small and lightweight, it's VHS compatible. Just slip the VHS-C video tape into its adapter, and you can watch your tapes on any VHS recorder. We even supply the adapter.

So when you consider buying a compact camcorder, consider more than its size. If its tapes can't play in your VCR, you might just be considering the wrong camcorder. ❑

DOCTOR CALLS ON PATIENT AT COLISEUM.

When Dr. L.S. Caspersen of Portland is on call, he's never far from a phone. As an obstetrician, his practice includes future Trailblazer fans born with a lot of questions.

Wisely, he has made himself immediately available even when he's enjoying a game.

Dr. Caspersen simply registers with Security when he enters the Coliseum. Then when a call comes in, Security notifies the Cellular One Courtesy Agent, who delivers the mobile phone to the doctor.

This service is available to anyone who hates to waste time. If you'd like to enjoy this convenience, simply register at the box office.

You could be using your time as well as Dr. Caspersen uses his. Because now he doesn't waste a minute getting to the lobby or waiting for a pay phone.

It's a good thing, too. Some of his patients just can't wait to talk to him.

Tom Peterson's OREGON'S FIRST FAMILY OF RETAILING

Tom Peterson's is truly a home grown company that planted its first roots at SE 82nd and Foster Rd. and stayed put. Over the years Tom's has grown right along with the rest of Portland, becoming the successful type of company our fine city is known for. Tom is now established as a neighborhood fixture with four great stores, all at that same SE 82nd and Foster Rd. location. It has become the area's most established outlet filling the electronic, appliance, and home furnishing needs of people throughout the state.

Tom Peterson's, still owned and operated by Oregon's first family of retailing is excited about future growth, with a commitment to customer satisfaction and the continued community support it has received for the past 25 years.

Thank you Portland, Oregon and S.W. Washington, too!

Bill Walton virtually made a career out of rebounding against Golden State. He recorded two 26-rebound games, six games of 20 or more retrieves, ten of 17 or more and was in double figures in that stat column in 15 of 16 outings as a Blazer. He averaged 17.3 caroms per game in the all-time series with the Warriors.

*All-Time Record

(NOTE: All-time records are for one season. Longest total road losing streak was 24 straight; from 1971-72 into 1972-73. Longest home winning streak was 34 straight from 1976-77 through 1977-78.)

In a December 7, 1982 contest with Utah, Portland sees the Jazz convert 39 straight free throws to set an NBA free throw accuracy record. However, the Blazers won the game, 137-121.

FAMOUS FIRSTS IN BLAZER HISTORY

Feb. 6, 1970: Professional basketball's first day in Portland as the city is granted an NBA franchise.

Mar. 23, 1970: Princeton's Geoff Petrie is selected as Portland's first college draft choice.

Apr. 21, 1970: Rolland Todd of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas is hired as the first head coach of the Trail Blazers.

Aug. 17, 1970: Bill Schonely is named the Blazers' first broadcaster.

Oct. 16, 1970: A crowd of 4,273 watches as Portland defeats Cleveland, 115-112, at Memorial Coliseum in the Blazers' first regular season contest. A free throw by Jim Barnett at the 9:18 mark of the 1st quarter is the first point scored by a Trail Blazer. Ron Knight charts the first field goal at 8:25 of the opening period.

Oct. 23, 1970: KPTV Channel 12 aires the first televised Trail Blazer game, from Seattle.

Jan. 12, 1971: Geoff Petrie becomes the first Trail Blazer to play in an NBA All-Star Game.

July 29, 1971: Rick Adelman is named the first captain in team history.

Nov. 3, 1973: Portland defeats the world champion New York Knicks, 107-100, in front of 12,086 Coliseum fans—the first home crowd in history to top the 12,000 mark.

Nov. 1, 1974: President Gerald Ford watches the Blazers defeat Buffalo, 113-106, at Memorial Coliseum. According to White House reports at that time, it was the first time a United States President attended an NBA game.

June 5, 1977: The Trail Blazers turn back the Philadelphia 76ers, 109-107, to win the NBA Championship Series, 4-2, giving Portland its first world championship.

Oct. 22, 1977: Portland tops San Antonio, 130-115, in the first closed circuit telecast at the Paramount Theatre. A crowd of 2,851 turns out to watch the game televised via big screen from the Coliseum.

Mar. 24, 1979: Lloyd Neal's jersey #36 becomes the first uniform number retired by the Blazers.

Oct. 10, 1980: Portland becomes the first NBA team to award four college scholarships as part of the league's scholarship program.

Jan. 25, 1983: ON-TV aires a Blazer home game with the Los Angeles Lakers. It was the team's first cable television game.

Apr. 24, 1987: Mike Schuler is honored as the NBA Coach of the Year, the first Blazer coach to earn the Red Auerbach Trophy.

Feb. 21, 1988: Jim Paxson becomes the first player to record 10,000 career points in a Trail Blazer uniform during a 117-112 victory over San Antonio.

The world champion Detroit Pistons have not won a game in Portland since Oct. 19, 1974, a span of 18 games during the last 15 years. That's the longest draught any team has ever experienced at Memorial Coliseum.

PORTLAND TRADE HISTORY

NOTES TO TRADE HISTORY

1. If a third team is not mentioned in the transaction then assume any draft pick is the choice of the team Portland is trading with or Portland's choice.
2. If a draft choice acquired in a transaction is subsequently traded by Portland in that original deal the choice is listed as: choice traded. Everywhere else when a draft choice is mentioned the player eventually selected either by Portland or by the team that finally wound up with that draft choice is shown in parenthesis.
3. In trades only what actually happened is given. If a team has several options in a deal only the one they decided to use is given.

May 28, 1986 Mike Schuler is named head coach of the Trail Blazers, replacing Jack Ramsay, who guided the team for ten seasons.

July 11, 1986 The Trail Blazers reach an agreement with Portland's Exposition and Recreation Commission that keeps the team in Memorial Coliseum for the next ten years.

Sept. 9, 1986 Jon Spoelstra is named General Manager of team; Bucky Buckwalter is named Vice-President-Basketball Operations.

1987

Mar. 19, 1987 Harry Glickman, executive vice-president and founder of the club, is named President of the Trail Blazers.

Mar. 20, 1987 Jim Paxson becomes the all-time leading scorer in Portland history during a 134-105 victory over Phoenix. He surpasses Geoff Petrie's standard and goes on to finish the season with 9,900 career points.

Apr. 24, 1987 Mike Schuler is honored as NBA Coach of the Year, the first Blazer head coach to earn the Red Auerbach Trophy.

1988

Mar. 15, 1988 Portland defeats the Los Angeles Lakers to win its ninth straight game, tieing the franchise record for the second time this season.

May 31, 1988 Larry Weinberg announces that he has sold the Trial Blazers to Seattle computer magnate Paul Allen.

Sept. 26, 1988 Mike Schuler signs a new three-year contract as coach.

Nov. 4, 1988 The Blazers honor Maurice Lucas by retiring his uniform number (No. 20).

1989

Jan. 6, 1989 Portland extends its sellout streak to 500 games, the longest string in NBA history. The Blazers defeat Sacramento, 147-142, in double overtime.

Feb. 18, 1989 Rick Adelman is named interim head coach following the firing of Mike Schuler.

Apr. 14, 1989 KEX radio, 1190 AM, is named flagship station of the Blazers.

May 11, 1989 Rick Adelman is named head coach on a permanent basis, the seventh head coach in team history.

PORTLAND YEARLY ATTENDANCE

For the 12th straight season, the Portland Trail Blazers were sold out in 1988-89 for all 42 home games, 41 during the regular campaign and one in the playoffs. That stretched Portland's record for consecutive sellouts for regular-season and playoff action to 528, an all-time National Basketball Association record and the longest current streak in sports.

The last time the Blazers failed to sell out was on April 5, 1977, when a crowd of 12,359 turned out for a game with Detroit.

In Portland's first 19 seasons, the team has drawn 8,780,038 fans for 777 regular-season games. That's an average of 11,300 a contest. For 811 regular-season and playoff games, the Blazers have drawn 9,212,737 fans for an average of 11,360 a contest.

In 41 regular-season road games in 1988-89, Portland played before 585,357 fans, an average of 14,277 a contest.

For the entire regular season, home and road, attendance was 1,112,365 for Portland games, an average of 13,565 a game.

FIRST ROUND NOTES:

(1) Atlanta has the option to swap choices with Sacramento in 1990, 1991 or 1992. Option exercisable at least seven days before applicable draft. If option exercised for 1990, Atlanta can gain maximum of four spots. Atlanta may not swap with a "lottery" pick (Theus-Wittman 6/27/88).

(2) Indiana will convey choice to Dallas in 1990 if choice is NOT between one and seven, inclusive; otherwise, choice will be conveyed in 1991.

BLAZERS vs. BOSTON—Game-by-Game 1988-89

CELTICS 106, BLAZERS 97, March 29, 1989, At Boston (Game 69, 32-37)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
21-32	19-19	32-32	25-23	97-106	14,890

Boston's starting lineup of Reggie Lewis, Ed Pinckney, Joe Kleine, Dennis Johnson and Brian Shaw opened with a 14-2 lead and posted a 51-40 halftime advantage. . . Portland shot .340 (18-53) and was outrebounded, 31-23, in the opening half. . . After trailing by as many as 20 points (75-55) in the third quarter, Portland pulled to within 93-90 with 5:30 to play but failed to score with its next three possessions to kill the rally. . . Boston played without Robert Parish (left knee bruise) and Kevin McHale (right foot bruise). . . It was Portlands fifth straight loss. . . The Celtics outscored the Blazers 22-7 at the foul line. . . Lewis fueled Boston with 35 points, while Jerome Kersey's 19 points led the Blazers. . . The Celtics were 42-85 (.494) from the floor, Portland 45-105 (.429)

BLAZERS 113, CELTICS 100, April 7, 1989, At Portland (Game 74, 35-39)

24-21	29-21	28-30	32-28	113-100	12,680

Both teams, having played on the road the previous night, started slowly. Boston shot .383 (18-47) from the floor, Portland .413 (19-46) in the first half. . . A 10-1 scoring run midway through the third period sparked the Blazers to a 20-point lead that proved insurmountable. . . Mark Bryant and Joe Kleine were ejected for fighting at the 9:33 mark of the second quarter. Bryant sustained a fractured left thumb that would sideline him for the remainder of the season. . . Trailing 27-26 at the time of the altercation, Portland went on a 9-2 run following the scrap. . . Kevin Duckworth (28), Terry Porter (24) and Clyde Drexler (21) each topped the 20-point mark for the Trail Blazers. . . Reggie Lewis led Boston with 26 points. . . Portland outscored Boston, 31-17, at the foul line.

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
26-30	15-30	26-24	24-44	91-128	19,916

A 16-2 run to open the second half erased a 60-41 Portland halftime deficit and drew the Blazers to within 66-61 five minutes into the third period. . . The Cavs responded with three straight baskets and moved out to an 84-67 lead that pushed the Blazers back. . . Clevelands 44 point fourth-quarter outburst was the second most productive final period by any Blazer opponent during the season. . . Larry Nance scored 28 points to lead the Cavs, while Brad Daugherty added 27. . . Clyde Drexler posted a triple-double of 18 points, 12 assists and 11 rebounds. . . The loss, Portlands sixth in a row, would be the largest margin of defeat during the Blazers' season and largest ever to the Cavaliers. . . Cleveland committed just 11 personal fouls, the fewest ever by a Trail Blazer opponent.

BLAZERS vs. DENVER — Game-by-Game 1988-89

NUGGETS 135, BLAZERS 115, November 10, 1988, At Denver (Game 4, 2-2)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
22-34	28-21	34-38	31-42	115-135	8,821

Leading 109-99 with 5:56 remaining, Denver got a pair of 3-point baskets from Michael Adams in less than a minute to push its lead to a commanding 117-101. . . Portland shot .360 (9-25) from the field in the opening quarter and was forced to play catch-up the rest of the way. . . The Blazers pulled to within 49-48 late in the first half but gave up 80 points after intermission. . . Danny Schayes posted 23 points and 10 rebounds while Alex English added 30 points. . . Clyde Drexler led Portland with 32 points. . . The Blazers outrebounded Denver, 51-38.

NUGGETS 143, BLAZERS 132, November 13, 1988, At Portland (Game 5, 2-3)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
39-30	32-36	32-44	29-33	132-143	12,812

Denver, playing its fourth game in five nights, overcame a 17-point first quarter deficit. . . Down the stretch, the Nuggets scored on their last eight possessions and converted 30 consecutive free throws before Lafayette Lever missed one with just four seconds left. . . A 15-2 Denver run pulled the Nuggets to within 52-49 midway through the second quarter, and a 17-6 spree to close out the third stanza put the visitors on top. . . The Nuggets shot .521 from the floor and .857 (42-48) at the free throw line while committing just 13 turnovers. . . Each team had four players score 20 or more points. . . It was the first time in Portland history that four Blazers fouled out in a home game.

BLAZERS 127, NUGGETS 124, December 20, 1988, At Denver (Game 37, 18-19)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.

BLAZERS vs. LAKERS — Game-by-Game 1988-89

LAKERS 106, BLAZERS 105, November 18, 1988, At Los Angeles (Game 8, 3-5)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-31	24-28	31-27	23-20	105-106	17,505

The Blazers got off only one shot in the final 2:16 and then neglected to foul Magic Johnson as he dribbled out the game's last 16 seconds. . . Portland led 103-100 with 2:34 to play but missed three straight shots and committed a turnover. . . James Worthy put the Lakers up 104-103 and Johnson added two free throws with 54 seconds left. . . Los Angeles charted a 21-11 advantage at the stripe and held Portland to a .464 field goal percentage.

LAKERS 133, BLAZERS 120, January 4, 1989, At Los Angeles (Game 29, 17-12)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
25-38	26-34	32-29	37-32	120-133	17,505

The Lakers led by as many as 23 in the first half, but an 18-8 Blazer run cut the margin to 80-69 in the third quarter. . . Los Angeles responded with a 16-4 run that squelched Portland's hopes. . . Mychal Thompson came off the bench with 27 points and 11 rebounds. . . The Lakers shot .569 from the floor and tallied a 31-14 advantage at the free throw line.

LAKERS 140, BLAZERS 129, February 3, 1989, At Los Angeles (Game 43, 23-20)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
27-36	22-35	37-33	43-36	129-140	17,505

A 17-6 outburst late in the second quarter gave the Lakers a commanding 71-49 halftime lead. . . Portland was within 12 early in the fourth quarter but never threatened. . . Magic Johnson charted 29 points and 8 assists. . . Kevin Duckworth's 25 points paced Portland.

LAKERS 110, BLAZERS 101, February 16, 1989, At Portland (Game 47, 25-22)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
16-26	26-32	32-26	27-26	101-110	12,848

Portland shot .400 from the floor in the first half and faced their third-largest halftime deficit of the season (the other two also came against the Lakers). . . A rare 4-point play by Clyde Drexler drew the Trail Blazers to within 72-67 with 4:42 to play in the third quarter, but the Lakers responded with eight straight points in 71 seconds. . . Los Angeles converted its first 29 free throw attempts and finished with a 32-20 scoring edge. . . The Lakers shot just .435 from the floor. . . It would be Mike Schuler's final game as head coach.

LAKERS 121, BLAZERS 114, April 21, 1989, At Portland (Game 81, 38-43)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
28-30	28-30	27-29	31-32	114-121	12,880

Clyde Drexler scored 24 of his game-high 43 points in the first half to fuel the Blazers. . . Magic Johnson scored nine straight Laker points to erase a Portland lead in the third quarter. . . Los Angeles shot .684 in the final period and finished with a .588 percentage. . . The win clinched the Pacific Division title for Los Angeles and gave the Lakers their second sweep in the season-series in four years.

Clyde Drexler scored 10 of his team-high 21 points in the opening period. . . The Blazers shot .667 from the floor while holding the Heat to a .280 effort in the first quarter, converting 16 baskets to Miami's seven. . . Kevin Edwards committed 11 turnovers, tieing the individual record against the Trail Blazers. . . Portland scored 34 points off 27 Miami turnovers.

BLAZERS 124, HEAT 102, February 26, 1989, At Miami (Game 52, 26-26)

1	2	3	4	Final	Att.
28-22	33-24	33-30	30-26	124-102	15,008

Rick Adelman picked up his first victory in five outings as head coach. . . The Trail Blazers halted a six-game losing streak and resurfaced at the .500 mark. . . Clyde Drexler's 10th career triple-double of 26 points, 11 rebounds and 10 assists led Portland. . . A three-quarter court press forced five Miami turnovers and Portland ran off 14 straight points to lead 61-46 at the half. . . The lead widened to 67-48 in the third quarter and Miami never threatened. . . Portland shot .546 from the field and held Miami to .433. . . Billy Thompson paced Miami with 25 points.

BLAZERS 97, HEAT 86, April 14, 1989, At Portland (Game 77, 38-39)

A GUIDE TO PERSONNEL PROCEDURES

ACTIVE LIST: A team must carry a minimum of 11, and no more than 12, players on its active roster. At no time shall a team be permitted to dress fewer than eight players for a regular season game or nine for a playoff game. During the offseason and training camp, teams may carry no more than 20 active players.

INJURED LIST: Any player placed on the injured list due to injury or illness, must sit out at least five of his team's regular-season games before he may be restored to the active list. For players injured near the end of the season, the rule is to mean the players must sit out five games or as many games as remain in the regular season.

TRADING DEADLINE: No trades or sales among teams are permitted after 9:00 P.M. eastern time, February 22. From that point to the end of the regular season, player additions can be made through the waiver procedure or by acquiring free agents.

WAIVERS: From August 15 to the end of the regular season, clubs may claim waived players within 48 hours after notice. Players waived at any other time, may be claimed within 10 days. If no teams claim the waived player, he becomes a free agent. If more than one club claims a waived player, the one with the lesser record at that time claims the player. The waiver price shall be $1,000 per player payable to the League Office.

TEN-DAY CONTRACT: On or after the 55th day following the season's first game, a team may sign a player to a 10-day contract solely for the purpose of replacing an injured player. No player may be signed to more than two 10-day agreements by a single team in the same season.

GUARANTEED CONTRACT DATE: On the 56th day of the regular season, all player contracts become guaranteed for the remainder of the season.

AMATEUR ELIGIBILITY RENUNCIATION: A player whose high school class has graduated shall become eligible for the college draft if he renounces his intercollegiate basketball eligibility by written notice to the NBA at least 45 days prior to the draft. Prior to 45 days before the draft, teams may not make direct or indirect contact with players who have eligibility left. Clubs may contact players without remaining eligibility, but may not discuss compensation.

TRADING OF FIRST DRAFT CHOICES: No team may sell or trade its right to select a player in the first round of the college draft if the result of such an exchange would be to leave the club without first-round picks in any two consecutive college drafts.

PRE-DRAFT CAMPS: Prior to the college draft, teams are prohibited from conducting so-called "mini-camps" for prospective players eligible for the draft.

EXPANSION EXPLAINED

To accommodate expansion, the NBA has adopted a rotating divisional alignment system that will be in effect through 1991.

"This rotating system will give fans in these new franchise cities a chance to see all the stars of the NBA several times in the first three years," said NBA Commissioner David Stern. "Then, in 1991, the teams will settle into their most logical geographical divisions, which we hope will enable them to build rivalries with existing teams in the same area."

Following are the divisional affiliations for the NBA's four newest members.

BILL SCHONELY

"Good evening basketball fans, wherever you may be. . ." With that statement Bill Schonely is doing what he does best, and what few others do nearly as well. For 19 years and more than 1,700 games, he's been bringing Trail Blazer basketball to radio listeners from California north to Alaska. Only two broadcasters, Boston's Johnny Most (37 years) and the Lakers' Chick Hearn (29 years) have been with their teams longer than Schonely. With that experience has come a reputation as one of the best play-by-play men in the business.

Schonely's voice is perhaps the most recognizable in Oregon, as the Blazer radio network is one of the largest in the NBA with some 25 affiliates on board. He's also become a national commodity as narrator of the NBA promotional spots that cover the country's television markets.

A native of Norristown, Penn., Schonz, as he's known to many, served in the U.S. Marine Corps before settling in Seattle where he worked as sports director of KVI radio for seven years. He served as the voice of the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League (and would later work for the NHL's Oakland Seals), University of Washington football, and Seattle Angels and Seattle Pilots baseball teams. The Pilots departed after just one season and the newly-created Portland Trail Blazers of the NBA came calling in search of their first announcer.

Schonely worked his 1,500th Blazer basketball game January 4, 1987. Friends and supporters from across the country paid tribute, and the date was proclaimed "Bill Schonely Day" by Portland Mayor Bud Clark. The second 1,500 is well underway.

GEOFF PETRIE

Geoff Petrie, the first-ever Portland Trail Blazer, enters his fifth year as analyst on the team's radio broadcasts. He's in his first season as the club's vice-president of business operations.

"While his basketball experience, developed as one of the NBA's best during his playing days and later as an analyst and shooting coach, is outstanding, Petrie's administrative skills are an excellent addition to the organization," said Blazer President Harry Glickman. "He has enjoyed much success in private business and has a good understanding of the business aspect of running a basketball franchise."

A graduate of Princeton, Petrie shared Co-Rookie-of-the-Year honors with Dave Cowens of the Boston Celtics after being Portland's first draft selection prior to its inaugural season of 1970-71. The former 6-foot-5 guard stands second on Portland's career scoring list (9,732), third in assists (2,057) and sixth in games played (446). His uniform number, 45, was retired October 11, 1981.

Five years ago, in his first season behind the Blazer microphone, Petrie displayed a strong ability to provide insight into the action on the floor in a way that appealed to fans of all degree. He augmented the play-by-play of another Blazer original, Bill Schonely. The two have grown up together in the Portland organization and possess a chemistry much sought but rarely obtained in the industry.

HENRY WEINHARD

Henry Weinhard
Brewmaster, No. 1, 5'10", 171 lbs.
Born: 1830, Wurtemburg, Germany
High School: Wurtemburg Area
College: Brewers apprentice

At the age of 22, and after years of apprenticeship, a talented Henry Weinhard decided he was ready for the major leagues. Upon surveying his options, Henry determined the best opportunity for a rookie such as him was in America.

In 1852 he came to the United States and immediately found a berth with the brewers in Cincinati, Ohio. He spent four years with this team polishing his skills.

As a free agent, he was intrigued by reports concerning bright openings on the Pacific coast. So early in 1856 he made the long voyage, via the isthmus, to the far west and hooked up with a Vancouver, Washington organization where he plied his trade for six months.

He then felt the time was right to make his move, so, in 1856, he established his own brewery near Fort Vancouver. It wasn't long before soldiers, loggers and trappers of the area became very big Henry Weinhard fans.

In 1860 he moved his operations to its present location on Burnside in Portland. From then on, Henry chalked up an enviable record of victories. He kept acquiring more equipment and adding more facilities to constantly increase his output while stubbornly maintaining the high level of excellence he had become known for. Everywhere along the coast Weinhard's beer was recognized as unsurpassed by any other native product.

Henry's experience and foresight prompted him to locate in Portland because he realized this area would eventually become the primary source of premium brewing ingredients in the United States. Time has proven him right.

Rare, two-row malting barley, for example, is grown in very few areas of the country, but Oregon's Klamath Basin is the most prominent. And the unique Cascade hops — which Henry recognized as being equal if not superior to the exalted Hallertau hop of Bavaria are raised here in Oregon.

Today, two labels continue in the proud, teutonic tradition set forth by Henry Weinhard 124 years ago. The perennial hometown favorite, Blitz-Weinhard, and the handmade, ultra-premium that is his namesake, Henry Weinhard's Private Reserve.

Trailblazer fans can expect a lot of good things from both of them this season. Again.

BLAZER TELEVISION NETWORK

Flagship station KOIN-TV, Channel 6, will again air 20 Blazer road games this season. The Blazer Television Network reaches nearly every television set in Oregon from KOIN in Portland to southern Oregon.

PAT LAFFERTY

Pat Lafferty, a 19-year veteran of Oregon radio and television broadcasting, is in his fourth year as the TV play-by-play announcer for the Portland Trail Blazers.

A native of Portland and 1967 graduate of the University of Oregon, Lafferty also serves the Portland front office as an account executive in Sponsor Services and as co-host of Blazer Sports Talk Special Edition. In addition, he's served as the Blazers' public address announcer at Memorial Coliseum for the past six years when not involved in the cable telecasts.

Lafferty began his broadcast career at KLOO Radio in Corvallis where he was Sports Director for 15 years. He also served as assistant station manager, morning air personality and was the station's top advertising account executive. He was the voice of Corvallis High School football and basketball and Oregon State baseball for 15 years, worked as an analyst on OSU basketball telecasts for four seasons and hosted Beaver Coach Ralph Miller's weekly television program for five years.

A sports historian, Lafferty is a member of the Society for American Baseball Research and has done pioneering work in the field of basketball team performance. His research on team efficiency, "Basketball's Power Index," has been published this fall as part of Martin Manley's "Basketball Heaven." (Doubleday)

Prior to entering the broadcast field, the 44-year-old Lafferty spent three years in the Army, serving in Vietnam in 1970. He and his wife, Isae, are the parents of 15-year-old twin sons, Dan and Sean.

STEVE JONES

A Portland native, Steve Jones comes from Franklin High School and the University of Oregon. He was an all-star guard in the now-defunct ABA, then played the 1975-76 season with the Trail Blazers before retiring.

Now Jones has become one of the most highly-regarded veterans in the broadcast business. He is in his seventh year as the analyst for Blazer telecasts and third season in the same capacity for the league's national telecasts on TNT.

Jones' broadcasting career began in 1976 (the season after he retired), when he became a color commentator for CBS. He was part of the network's announcing team that handled the Trail Blazers famed Championship game. Also that year, he was the color analyst for the Blazers. Steve continued for three seasons with CBS, and the Denver Nuggets.

Finally, in 1979, Jones came home to Portland to join Bill Schonely at the Blazer radio microphone. During his tenure with the Blazers, Steve has additionally been with the USA Cable Network as a commentator for NBA games.

He stepped aside in 1981 on radio broadcasts to devote a full-time effort to the club's talk show, "Blazer Sports Talk." The show has become the most popular sports talk show in Oregon and is now aired not only prior to every Blazer game, but also on Monday nights throughout the year.

BLAZER COURTSIDE

"Courtside. . . with Steve Jones" airs for one hour on KEX (AM 1190) 90 minutes prior to every Blazer game. "Courtside: Monday Night" airs on KEX from 6:05-8:00 p.m. on Monday nights for 48 weeks a year and is hosted by Steve Jones and Pat Lafferty. Fans can participate in "Courtside. . . with Steve Jones" by calling 225-1190 from Portland, 585-1190 from Salem and 256-1190 from Vancouver.

NOTES

THE NEW 1990 4RUNNER.

FOR THOSE WHO WORK HARD AND PLAY EVEN HARDER.

The new Toyota 4Runner is built to keep up with the lifestyle of the Northwest. A roomy runabout during the week, the 4Runner is ready for rugged recreation on the weekend.

For 1990, the 4Runner rides on Toyota's exclusive "Hi-Trac" independent front suspension to ensure a smooth, comfortable ride. The interior features reclining front bucket seats, split-back folding rear bench seat and power rear window. Toyota's unique 4WDemand system eliminates the need for freewheeling/locking front hubs. And the 4Runner comes standard with a tough, reliable 2.4 cylinder engine that produces 116 horsepower and a 150 horsepower optional V6.

The 4Runner is for people who play as hard as they work. Stop by and see one today at your nearest Portland Metro Toyota Dealer. And remember, where you go in your Toyota 4Runner is your business. Getting you back is ours.
